Sheriff asked to investigate KOMA complaint

The Kingman County Sheriff's Office has been asked to investigate a complaint that some members of the Kingman City Commission may have violated the Kansas Open Meetings Act.

Kingman County Attorney Matt Ricke said he received the complaint the week of Jan. 13. Ricke said he requested assistance from the Kansas Attorney General's office and was referred to the logic division. However, several telephone calls and an e-mail by Ricke's office to that division went unanswered.

On Jan. 29, Ricke asked the Kingman County Sheriff's Office to investigate the complaint. Ricke declined to identify the person making the original complaint and said no further comment would be made because the matter is an ongoing investigation.
